Local Color

The El Fumador, located between Ocean and Seventh, held its annual shindig last Saturday evening. They have been doing this for two years now and I hear it was a smoking good time. Clif Coleman said that there were some forty to fifty folks there enjoying everything on the house. Here's another shop founded on those inalienable principles "of the people, by the people and FOR the people".

Pete Johnson who is the boss man at the Arc de Triomphe told me that he pulled out his old chalk striped suit the other day. It smelled of mothballs but it still fit so he climbed into these very fancy festoons and sported chalk stripes in his shop the next day. There were two varied opinions on Mr. Johnson's attire. Some said that it was good to see a shop owner that didn't look like he just blew off the golf course and the other half grumbled "What's he giving it!"

Mr. and Mrs. Don Adams held a dinner party last Saturday at dusk. Cocktails, gourmet, and music were served respectively to Mr. David Eldridge and "Mr. Arthur", the McElroy girls, Ruthie and Mary. Don's music and Gretchen's cooking were both very digestible.

I visited Mr. Don Sands again this week in hopes that he might have some more news for me. I asked him if he had anything earth-shaking to tell. Don said that he didn't but they sure had some over in Belgium. It looks as though we have another Will Rogers among us.

On Mr. Kramer's golf game. "No comment."

Each Monday I crawl into the Carmel City Hall looking for a little Local Color. This Monday there was none. I asked isn't anyone complaining about a tree being cut down? A blond fellow that works there said that any such important problems never arise until five minutes before a Council Meeting. So there's no news at the city hall as of Monday.

Parker Kimball who no longer hides behind a mustache was chuckling at my attempts to duplicate Zapata's upper lip. He said the day he shaved his off it took his wife almost twenty hours to notice the vacancy. Upon kissing a friend she shouted get away with those awful whiskers. The topper was the friend who said, "I knew it was you when I saw your mustache coming." Look again, folks, look again.

Every spring Virginia Nielson's flower shop has a special attraction. Not the flowers which are always an attraction at that time of year but little Pekinese puppies that can always wring a smile from the stoniest of faces. She has two under foot now and are they cute. If you don't believe me, go in and see for yourself.

It is said that when a person reaches the years that are termed "old age" the person will revert back to juvenile activities. Now we are not saying that Lloyd Weer is becoming old but it is a fact that Mr. Weer is the owner of a very racy little Austin motorcar, and tell me what high school lad wouldn't like to own such a car?

Working for the city is a fellow with an interesting "me. His first, last, and only handle is Fiddler. I am told that he doesn't play the fiddle.

Carmel's illustrious banker Arne Halle is becoming very arty of late. He was seen sporting a string tie at work last Tuesday morning. I was told he wore it on a and in case he couldn't make it through the day he carried a spare with him. The spare was a respectable banker's tie.

Carmel students have played a prominent part in club elections at MPC, with several elected to more than one office. Bill Daniels, who was elected Sophomore class president last week, has been chosen to fill the Circle K treasurer spot.

In the Rally Club election Miss Diane Lewis was elected vice president; Miss Kathy Seipel, secretary; and Miss Janet McFail, treasurer. Other club elections included the AWS, in which Miss Audrey Campbell was chosen vice president. Miss Diane Lewis faces Miss Carol Hudson in a run-off for the secretary position.

If you have any interesting little stories for Local Color, let us have them -- so long as they're not Off Color!

Personalities

Our distinguished personality greeted me at his mountain home with a scepter of cypress in one hand and a thunderbolt in the other. You see, this week's personality is Mr. Jupiter. He's a very robust gentleman, sporting a long gray beard and standing about fifteen hands high. I hailed him and asked for an interview as he is going to be a resident of the Peninsula on the night of February seventh. At this, he flashed me a smile and said, "By Jupiter!" I answered, "No, Sir, by Masten as I have the by-line on the story." At this point I was feeling very ungodly but Mr. Jupiter motioned me into a silver-lined cloud and told me to fire away.

I asked him if he were married and a shadow crossed his high brow as he told me that he had the only legal marriage on Olympus. "Juno is her name," Mr. J. said, "and as queen of the heavens her power is equal to mine. This can be quite devastating when sneaking home in the wee hours of the morning after A NIGHT WITH THE GODS. He added that she was jealous by nature and could really blow up a storm when he was silly enough to pursue his favorite hobby (wood nymphs).

I found that the Jupiters have quite a fabulous family, a little inbred, of course, but awfully nice. They have one son that used to be a track star and now works for the telephone company. Their favorite daughter is a Field and Stream addict, who is always borrowing their youngest son's bow and arrow set. This infuriates the little fellow as he needs it every moment. You've probably heard of him, Cupid's his name. He's the kid that's bound and determined to give all bachelors the shaft.

It seems Mr. Jupiter has no special interests aside from wood nymphs. He lets his sons and daughters take care of those affairs that might be of some interest to mortals, and Venus is quite accomplished at that. Mr. Jupiter is content to just putter about in his garden digging here and there with his thunderbolt, or relaxing in the shade of a Greek column with a tall cool one.

A writer could write on for hours on the incomparable Mr. Jupiter and family. I believe it has been done before in a book entitled "Mythology" or something. But I have an idea for you folks who would like to meet Mr. Jupiter in person. Just go to the Arts Ball this Saturday night and ask for him. I'm sure he'll be glad to see you and introduce you to his family.

GIRL SCOUT HOUSE HAS FACE LIFTED

This reporter arrived at the Carmel Girl Scout house last Saturday morning to see what all the shouting and yelling was about. I found hanging from the walls, the roof, the ceiling and, in fact, hanging from everything that was able to be hung from, a white-suited gentleman furiously swinging a paint brush. I shouted, "What's going on around here?" but all I could get out of the white-suited gentlemen was a bit of pale green paint in the eye. I was just about to kick a ladder out from under one of these fellows when a cute little girl scout saluted me and said, "At your service, Sir." She took me on sort of a Cook's tour of the premises, past carpenters, tree trimmers, landscapers, color schemers and past some of the girls' mothers who are just schemers--it seems that they thought the whole thing up, and it's a grand scheme.

About twenty years ago the old Carmel library was dug up and transplanted across the street. It was painted and christened the Carmel Girl Scout House. Then (Continued on Page 11)

The Arts Ball seems to be inspiring our every thought these days, and so it is to this happy affair I point this week's little ditty. Of course, I've spiked it with a certain grudge I harbor on the changing female fashions. All in fun, of course.

The hem on women's dresses
Is like an elevator--
When price goes up,
The style goes up,
And nears a gal's equator,
And when the fashion hits the ground
You pay a French creator.

But up on Mount Olympus
A female can't be modest,
For though she wears
No more than air
She's still a lovely goddess.

Her taste can be expensive
At price she never pauses
Yet Zeus won't kick,
He'll think she's slick
When she's in sequin gauzes.

So let's forget the fashions
And price tags so ungodly.
Del Monte Lodge
Is just the dodge,
If you are feeling godly.

Now come on, Aphrodite,
And bring the Seven Muses
And, Bacchus, too
By all means you
Don't let your wine confuse ya's
So come, you gods,
And be like Thor--
Let's all blow out the fuses.

EX-CONSUL TELLS VIEWS ON FORMOSA

Mr. Charles DeVault who has been an American Consul and diplomatic officer for more than twenty-five years but now retired and living in Carmel was interviewed this week and had some interesting observations on the new Formosa policy. Mr. DeVault spent ten years as a consul at Tokyo with both Formosa and Korea under the jurisdiction of that office at that time. He spent three years on the Island of Formosa building a U. S. Consul residence and office building and helped reorganize the U. S. Consul service on that island.

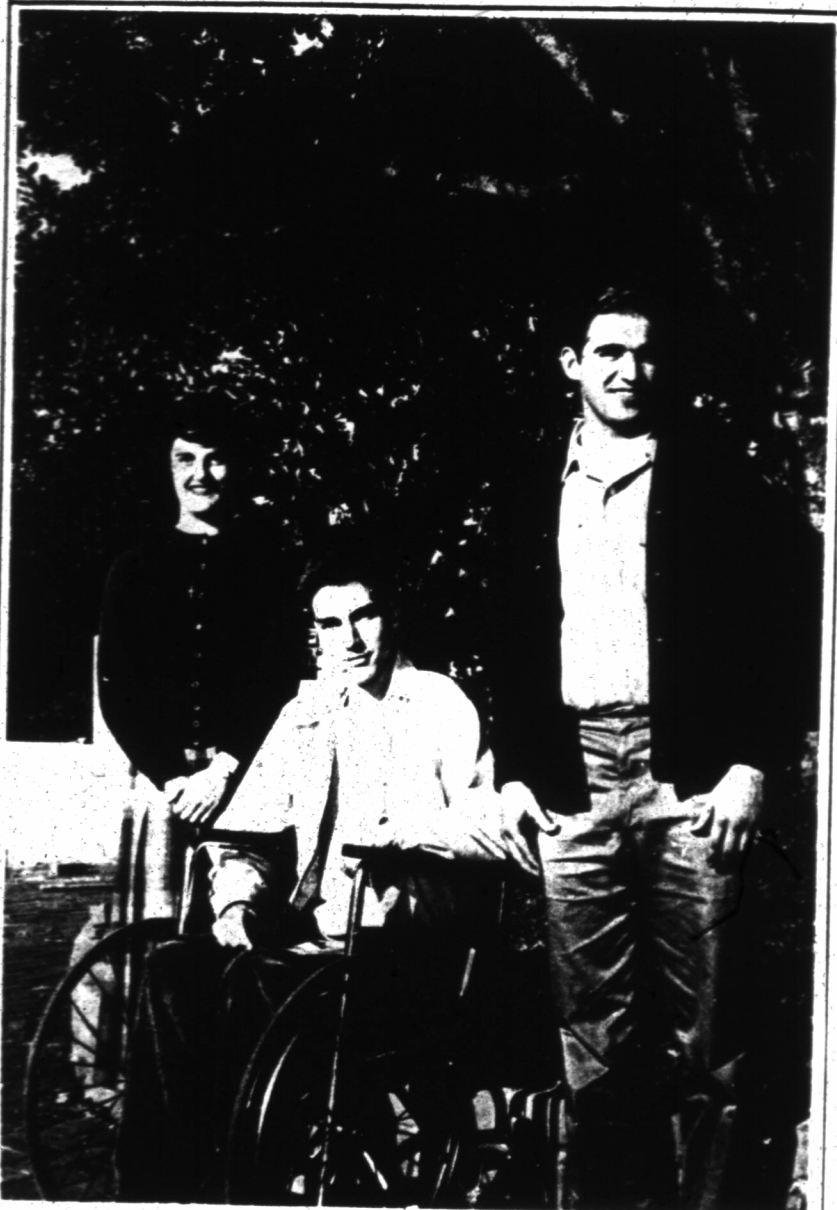

In his opinion Formosa is of supreme importance in American defense and strategy. Formosa, now so much in the news, is comparatively unknown to the average American and was hardly noticed during the years of World War II, though from Pearl Harbor Day on it was wellknown to the joint chiefs of staff. It was the most powerful base in the Far East and for that matter the whole world, having been built up by Japan between the two World Wars into a giant Gibraltar of the Orient. Accordingly it was adjudged by the joint chiefs of staff too formidable to be attacked frontally, and as we now know was by-passed when the MacArthur forces drove from the Philippines to Okinawa to get to the Japanese mainland. Because the American authorities adopted this strategy the press was silent about Formosa as long as the war was on. Now we are hearing more of this island and it shall remain in the news for some time.

Asked what he thought of President Eisenhower's new policy, Mr. DeVault expressed the greatest confidence in the President's grasp of the world situation and his marked ability to get things done. The situation the world over, he says, is alarmingly inflammable and it is impossible for any layman to know what will ultimately result from Eisenhower's plans.

Mr. DeVault concluded with the opinion that the "situation throughout the entire Eastern half of the world has been allowed to get into such a position that it is almost impossible for anyone to predict the future in that area. We have been too much on the defensive with the aggressor, with no promise of any solution.

VILJOEN-BOTTARO NUPTIALS AT MISSION SAN CARLOS

Miss Jeannine Viljoen of Carmel, and Thomas Bottaro of Pacific Grove and the U. S. Air Force, were united in marriage at a morning nuptial Mass, January 31, in the Mission San Carlos Borromeo in Carmel.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Viljoen. The bridegroom who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luciano Bottaro of Pacific Grove, is stationed at Parks Air Base as A/3c with the office of information.

The bride wore a white faille wedding gown with full skirt and train. The bridegroom was in Air Force dress uniform.

Miss Faye Sticht of Carmel was the bride's honor maid. She was attired in rose taffeta, ballerina length. The best man was Nat Agliano, cousin of the bridegroom. Ben Viljoen, brother of the bride, ushered.

Miss Edith Passalacque, Mission organist, was at the console. Miss Marguerita Rahneberg sang Hubert's "Ave Maria" and other traditional hymns.

Mrs. Viljoen attended the wedding in a dress of powder blue faille and Mrs. Bottaro wore smoke blue.

The wedding reception was held at the Carmel Woman's Club where the justweds cut their wedding cake. Mrs. Leonard Lundeen of Orland, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. John Castorina, the bridegroom's only sister, took over to serve the guests. Miss Barbara Viljoen, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest-book. Mrs. Sebastian Moscuza of Monterey, the bridegroom's grandmother, was in the receiving line.

For going away the bride donned a navy suit with white jacket, and pink hat with matching

"GUNSMOKE" FILLS CITY HALL AS CITY COUNCIL DEBATES P.C. APPOINTMENTS

The Carmel City Council met last Wednesday, February 4th, in the Town Hall, in what started out to be a quiet, smooth-running affair. Trees were to be cut down, left alone, braced up; in other words, it was a routine meeting of the Carmel City Council. Though some of us may laugh at our Council's fussing and fuming over pine trees, oaks and shrubs, it must be remembered that Carmel would not be Carmel without its trees. We should be grateful and pleased that we have a City Council to look out for them.

Things went rolling along until number seven on the agenda came up. Filling the vacancies on the City Planning Commission--then WHAM!

Mayor Lyon started off with a speech outlining his views on the need for two new members on the Planning Commission to replace the two whose terms have just expired. The duties of the Commission, the Mayor pointed out, are two-fold: to hold and preserve what we have and to plan for the future. To accomplish these objectives, the Planning Commission, he said, should undertake streamlining the work that has been done by the group, review the zoning ordinances, study the traffic problem, reforest the city, bring the city-owned building construction up to date, arrange for beach maintenance (which has been attempted but which has run into difficulties), keep development at the Carmel River mouth to a minimum, consider a long-range plan to put utility wires underground, bring into the City the outlying areas as soon as possible.

The Mayor went on to state that the City Planning Commission is the "rehearsal and study branch of the City Council." He concluded by saying that it is desirable to have on the Commission men of experience, training, willingness, time, understanding and love of Carmel.

"Why beat around the bush, Mr. Mayor?" Councilman Craig asked. "Let's bring the whole problem out into the open. It seems to me that this whole thing boils down to personal grievances between the Mayor and some members of our Planning Commission. Why replace two members who have done a marvelous job?" Mr. Craig stressed that no one can point to any neglect on the part of members of the past Planning Commission. He further stated that the Planning Commission had already looked into and carefully surveyed all the points which the Mayor had enumerated.

Councilwoman Smith said that she stood by the Mayor on the grounds that she disapproved of any chairman of any board in the State of California--Fish, Game, or what-have-you--remaining in office for more than six years.

To this Councilman Craig retorted, "The Mayor of Carmel can remain in office for eight years at the Council's approval. So why give a good man the bum's rush after six years?" Mr. Craig then proposed a compromise that "we reappoint the two members whose terms have expired and appoint two new members of the Mayor's choosing and the Council's approval."

The Mayor himself had previously mentioned the fact that the Commission, according to the by-laws, may be expanded to nine members. So, with Mr. Craig's suggested compromise, it looked to this reporter as though the problem was solved. But the Mayor insisted that he wished to wait until Councilman Whittaker (who was absent) returned and in an adjourned meeting the Council could discuss the matter further.

To this Mr. Craig answered "The Council knows Mr. Whittaker's views on the problem and why not get the whole thing over now through the compromise?" Then glancing at the clock, he smiled and said, "It seems, Mayor, that you have won this evening's round by stalling."

At the meeting there were only twelve citizens present and it seems a shame that in such controversies as these the people of Carmel rely on hearsay. It would be well worthwhile for the townspeople who love Carmel to find out, exactly, what goes on by attending the Council meetings. The meeting was adjourned to four o'clock on Wednesday, February 11, R. M.

Children Love Parties—and Cookies!

Holidays mean parties and "Cherry-Oat Party Cookies" were developed in the Lever Test Kitchens especially for children's parties on George Washington's Birthday. These crispy Spry cookies, gayly decorated with bright red cherries, are festive looking—and delicious eating! All this, and nutritious, too! Children love them with a glass of milk.

The recipe for "Cherry-Oat Party Cookies" is so easy to follow that many children will enjoy making them themselves, for their own special parties. Mothers will be turning them out at a moment's notice for the many other occasions when crunchy-good oatmeal cookies are "just right." Here's the recipe:

CHERRY-OAT PARTY COOKIES

- | | |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1 cup Homogenized Spry | 2 eggs, unbeaten |
| 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed | 1/2 cup walnuts, chopped |
| 1 cup granulated sugar | 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt | 1 teaspoon soda |
| 1/2 teaspoon vanilla | 3 cups rolled oats |
| | 18 candied cherries, cut in quarters |

Put first 6 ingredients in mixing bowl and beat very thoroughly. Stir in nuts. Sift flour with soda, add to Spry mixture, and mix thoroughly. Add oats and mix well. Shape dough in 1" balls, roll each ball in granulated sugar and place on Sprycoated baking sheets, leaving a little space between. Place a quarter piece of cherry on top of each ball. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 12-15 minutes. Cool about 2 minutes before removing cookies from baking sheet. Yield: 6 dozen.

'SHOP' TALK

By Kate

THOR -- God of thunder and lightning sends an advance FLASH on his arrival at the Fine Arts Ball in a night fit for the gods--Feasting, Festivity and Fun! At long last it's here, for tomorrow night Del Monte Lodge at Pebble Beach will be transformed into an enormous stage to form a background for the pageantry and parrying of the gods at the fabulous annual Fine Arts Costume Ball, sponsored by the Carmel Art Association (as if you didn't know by now!) So if you're like I am and haven't as yet assembled your entire costume--or decide to go at the last minute and need an inspiration for a costume--the shops in Carmel are worth a visit. Your eye may light on just the thing to decide you on which god or goddess to emulate, and now down to earth!--to tell you the latest "Shop Talk" on the Peninsula.

VERSATILE is the word for it--when describing Elizabeth Harrington and Lela Brown whose work is on exhibit at the Pebble Beach Art Gallery, Del Monte Lodge. Not only do they do painting and "sculpting" but they have created colorful pictures from bits of glass picked up on the beach which give a startlingly realistic effect.

Do you know that WILSON'S whose lovely gifts are designed for Country Living, have three shops, one at Los Gatos, one at The Statler Hotel in Los Angeles, and of course "our" Wilson's in Carmel. Do stop in and see the stunning wooden salad bowls "imported" from the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia, also to carry out the wooden "motif" there are salt and pepper shakers in small or large sizes done in polished wood all of which are ideal accessories for that buffet supper or outdoor barbecue.

"ON TOP OF THE WORLD"-- as free as a bird! if you drop in at the lovely 're-newvated' Solarium Tea Room on top of HOLMAN'S Department Store in Pacific Grove. The Solarium is not only completely done over in new spring attire but has "gone through change of ownership", namely two sisters, Mrs. Velma Kuch, hostess, and Mrs. Bertha Swain in charge of food production.

This is Mrs. Kuch's and Mrs. Swain's first business venture in California. They formerly operated tea shops in and around Chicago and have furnished the Solarium with some of their cherished antiques including a corner cupboard, beautiful old spinning wheel and a charming old spice cupboard which gives a real Cape Cod atmosphere to the Tea Room. The view itself with the entire panorama of the ocean and surrounding shore lines is breathtaking. Although the Solarium is now doing business--the official opening will be next Tuesday, February 10th. The tea room is open from 10:00 a.m. till 4:30 p.m. and joy upon joys to employees and customers alike dinner will be served Thursday evenings!

CARMELITE NAMED TO ARMY POST IN KOREA

Colonel Louis B. Rapp of Carmel has been named director of the newly established special activities division in the personnel section of Army Forces, Far East headquarters at Yokohama, Japan.

The fashionable ladies in the accompanying pictures were models last Friday noon at The Cinderella Shop "Spring in January" fashion show which was held at La Playa Hotel. (Left to right) Mrs. B. V. McMenamin drew attention when she modelled a Moygashel gray linen suit designed by Huntleigh. (2) Mrs. Howard Veit appeared in an interesting red and white silk print. She carried a bright red wool coat which is lined with the same print. (3) Brilliant red and green distinguished the Panagra cotton print dress modelled by Mrs. Richard Osborne. Eyes focussed closely upon Mrs. Richard Osborne when she appeared again in a Claire McCardell pima cotton dress, a creation distinguished by coral and white stripes. (5) Touches of red and white accent the Navy cruissaline dress modelled by Mrs. Adolph Solomon, wife of Lt. Col. Solomon, Fort Ord's special services officer. (6) Miss June Stratton modelled a Claire McCardell "Panagra" print dress. The fabric is so named because it is frequently used by models in advertising Panagra and Pan-American Airways.

PINION SMOKE

By Jo O'Dell

When the 'pinion logs are crack-lin'

An' the smoke's acurlin' high,
When the owl is sendin' calls
Across the starry, moonlit sky,
When chirpin' crickets singin'
In the swayin' meadow grass
An' the fish amakin' rings
Across the water's mirrored glass,
When the coyote up the canyon
Is abarkin' to his mate,
An' the last crisp curl o' bacon
Lies acoolin' on the plate,
If the ole hound-dog is snoozin'
An' adreamin' in his sleep
Then a man's got peaceful solitude

An' somethin' he can keep.
If his huntin' knife is handy
An' his gun is oiled an' clean
If a man's heart's strong an' steady
An' his mind is fair an' clean,
He can look off 'cross the canyon
An' across the grassy slope;
He can fill his pipe with rough-cut
An' enjoy the fragrant smoke.
There's hundreds ownin' gold mines

An' there's thousands own fine homes

But there's mighty few alivin'
Who can call their soul their own.
There's mighty few alivin'
Can enjoy their time like me,
Can be so plumb contented
An' so everlastin' free.
Yet there's some feel sorry
When I amble into town
Because my roof's the treetop,
An' my bed, the dewy ground.
Well, let them do the stewartin'
An' I'll do the things I love
An' I hope that when the end comes

There'll be Pine trees up above.

"THE PIPES OF PAN" herald the grand opening of the Carmel Art Association's Third Annual Arts Ball: "A Night with the Gods" at Del Monte Lodge tomorrow night. This dramatic mural painted by Carmel's distinguished artist Pat Cunningham (pictured above), perched on the stool on which she stood to paint the mural, smiling joyously in anticipation of the festive event. Miss Cunningham is to be congratulated as it is due mainly to her inspiration and gifted ability that the annual Artists Ball is becoming increasingly successful to the point that in the future it may easily rival the renowned Paris Artists' Ball. --Steve Crouch photo.

Fashioned for Motoring Comfort

Here's the ultimate in fashion for milady's traveling needs in comfortable and practical driving. These chic new Motor-Mates coats have been inspired by the 1953 Ford Victoria and are styled in hues to match the car colors.

Interviewing prospective singers for the 1953 Bach Festival chorus is Miss Angie Machado (foreground), who is assisting Maestro Gastone Usigli in directing rehearsals. Talking to her is John Bruce Johnson, baritone, while looking on are (left to right) William J. Kennedy, baritone; Luneta Thelen, alto; Mrs. William Carter, soprano, and Mrs. Eric Orme, another soprano. Rehearsals are held 7:30 Tuesday evenings in the Sunset School kindergarten building. Additional singers are sought for the chorus, which is beginning work early on the monumental "Saint Matthew Passion", a composition even more difficult than the "B Minor Mass". --Arthur McEwen photo

TRAVEL MOVIES TO BE SHOWN

Two superb post-war all color feature-length motion picture travelogues with the famous artist photographer Alfred Wolff as commentator will delight audiences Monday and Tuesday nights February 16 and 17 at the Sunset Auditorium, Carmel. Alice Seckels, who has arranged for Mr. Wolff's appearance here, states that not since the showing of Lowell Thomas, Jr.'s outstanding motion pictures last April has there been anything comparable to these films. "This Is Spain" and "This Is France" are the films to be shown. "This Is Spain" will be the joyous arm chair journey on Monday evening, the sixteenth. Here is a tour replete with all the magic of colorful Spain. Unbelievably rich in history, in art, in monuments of past magnificence and picturesque scenes and customs of today, these will be brought to us together with the masterpieces of El Greco, Goya, Murillo and Velasquez; a flight to lovely Majorca where Chopin lived, where Father Junipero Serra was born, exciting Gypsy Dances with recorded music accompanying them, these and more will enthrall us as the journey unfolds.

twenty years of little girls came and went rocking the building with their meetings and smoking up the walls with their cooking. The kids became better wives because of this, but the building, tsk, tsk! Thus all the shouting and yelling last Saturday. By the time you read this article the old scout house will be a new scout house. And our sons will have a chance for better wives twenty years from now!

Thanks for this community project goes to the Carmel Lions Club for paint, to Fred Ask, Luis Crane and Norman Winslow for putting the paint where it will look best, to J. O. Handley for the wood that the Monterey Peninsula Builders used, to the De Maria brothers and Wendell Redding who made the most of the bricks Walt Pilot donated and the sand and cement given by the Plaza Fuel Co., to M. J. Murphy for grape stakes and to Putnam & Raggett for materials used for the new curtains.

To sum the whole thing up, one of the girl scout mothers said, "Isn't community spirit grand!" and by the looks of things it sure is!

Upon his return to civilian life he will spend a month with his family in Pasadena and then has tentative plans to travel to Mexico or New Orleans to give full time to painting.

HEIFER & HOG TO ATTEND

The annual Saint Patrick's Day dance will be held at the Rancho Del Monte Country Club on March 14 and in case you're interested, Saint Patrick's Day is the 17th of March. The dance then will no doubt put everyone in the spirit of the Kelly Green. The star attraction will be a Hereford heifer and a Hampshire hog to be given away right off the dance floor. The heifer will be donated by the Violini Brothers.

Dancing will begin at 9:00 o'clock in the evening and will wear you out until 1:00 a. m.

MAGNETIC MOVIES SHOWN BY CROSBY ENTERPRISES

The fame of the Invisible Man will soon be eclipsed by invisible motion pictures.

The picture that you see in your local theatre is projected from a reel of film on which both the picture and the sound are visible--the picture a series of "still" shots and the sound a succession of tracks along the edge of the picture.

Now all this is going to be changed. For some time motion picture and radio producers have been using invisible sound--commonly known as "magnetic", such as the garden variety quarter-inch magnetic tape used in the tape recorder in our schools and offices.

With the great impetus that television is giving to the entertainment field John Mullins, Wayne Johnson and Ed Corey have come up with magnetically recorded pictures, patents licensed by the Bing Crosby Enterprises.

With tape traveling at 100 inches per second (which is mighty fast) the picture and sound are put onto tape electronically. The reproduction of this electronically recorded picture and sound is said to be excellent and the expense will be cut far below present operating costs, even though the tape is obviously consumed at a very rapid rate.

A point of high technical interest to the producer is the fact that the picture and sound are recorded in direct relationship to each other, on the tape which in lay language means that with one swipe of the cutting scissors you can edit picture and sound together. In the optical system the sound track and the picture are 26 frames apart because of technical requirements in projection, the picture moving with a claw operation, the sound running smoothly over a drum. With the invisible or magnetic recording, and the speed increased to 100 inches per second, this problem has been solved.

It looks as if photographers will soon be taking 'invisible motion pictures, but don't worry, the TV maintenance crew will see to it that the pictures become visible by the time they reach your TV screen.

NEW FEATURE AT KENNEL CLUB

The public is invited to attend a Dog Instruction Class of the Del Monte Kennel Club on the first Mondays of the month. This will be a monthly feature with a different breed of dog explained each month.

Purpose is to instruct Dog Lovers in the care, feeding and showing of dogs and to encourage more local entries from Monterey County in the shows sponsored by the Del Monte Kennel Club.

At the next meeting, on the first Monday in March at Del Monte Lodge at 8:30 p. m., Mr. Jake Huizenga and Mrs. Frank Morehead will demonstrate and explain the Irish Setter breed. Also Dr. John Craig will speak on the care and feeding of dogs.
